284	Suggests a pedestrian crossing to the tramway stop at Colyford could run adjacent to the actual tramway crossing, thus not littering the highway with signs and crossings.
289	CVRA points out that there is minimal signage to Colyford village from the White Hart tramway stop, also the route involves crossing the narrow bridge along the A3052 over the River Coly which is very dangerous for pedestrians.

428	EDDC suggests the PC could consider identifying space on the edge of the BUAB for car parking if it is required. If this were surfaced using 'grasscrete' or similar it would not need to be visually intrusive and, if it were used only at peak holiday time, could be grassed and grazed when not in use potentially.
